THE FOUNDERS AND THE CLASSICAL SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE

"This material is excerpted from a forthcoming chapter by the author to appear in Paul Kemeny, ed., Five Views of Church-State Separation (Intervarsity Press, forthcoming 2006)"

DEREK H. DAVIS, Waco
Baylor University

State Bar of Texas
THE FIRST AMENDMENT’S RELIGIOUS LIBERTY CLAUSES
March 30-31, 2006
Austin

CHAPTER 1
Derek H. Davis, B.A., M.A., J.D., Ph.D., is a graduate of Baylor University and Baylor Law School and holds a Master of Arts in Church-State Studies from Baylor University and a Doctor of Philosophy in Humanities from the University of Texas at Dallas. He is Professor of Political Science and the Director of the J.M. Dawson Institute of Church-State Studies, Baylor University, Waco, Texas, which offers M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in Church-State Studies, conducts research and publishes books on church-state relations and religious liberty in national and international contexts, maintains the largest research library in the world pertaining to religious liberty and church-state relations, and sponsors conferences and lectureships on various church-state themes.

In addition to serving as editor of the award-winning Journal of Church and State, Dr. Davis is a fellow, director and officer of the International Academy for Freedom of Religion and Belief, serves on the advisory council of the Interfaith Religious Liberty Foundation, is on the advisory board of The Pew Forum on Religion and Public Life, is a member of the Religious Liberty Council of the National Council of Churches U.S.A., is a member of the Board of Experts for the International Religious Liberty Association, is listed in Who's Who in American Law and Who's Who in the World, and presently serves as Special Counsel to the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs. In 2000, he was awarded the Human Rights Achievement Award by Freedom magazine, and in 2004, the Honor of Merit by the International Religious Liberty Association for leadership in advancing religious freedom. He is also a former Baylor football captain and all-conference receiver.

His frequent magazine, radio, and television interviews have included those for Time Magazine, First Things, The New York Times, The Washington Post, The Philadelphia Inquirer, National Public Radio, Los Angeles Times, Wall Street Journal, Chicago Tribune, The Christian Science Monitor, CNN, the Fox News Network, CBS News, and ABC News. In recent years he has been called upon by the U.S. Congress, the Texas legislature, and United Nations emissaries for testimony relating to legal measures needed to protect religious liberty in national and international settings. He has lectured extensively before academic, public, and religious audiences on a wide range of topics including religious liberty (national and international), church-state relations (ancient, medieval, and modern), human rights, ethnic cleansing, the political role of Christianity and other religions, civil religion, nontraditional religions, religious dimensions of the American founding, law and morality, law and religion, and religion and education.
TABLE OF CONTENTS

I. THE BASIC DEBATE: THE MEANING OF THE RELIGION CLAUSES ............................................................. 2
   A. The First Congress and the Emergence of the Religion Clauses .......................................................... 4
   B. The Proposals ..................................................................................................................................... 4
   C. The Religion Clauses Emerge .............................................................................................................. 5
   D. The Search for Meaning ....................................................................................................................... 6

II. CLASSICAL SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE AS AN EVOLVING MOVEMENT ...................... 6
    A. The Disestablishment Movement ....................................................................................................... 6
    B. The Movement to Ban Religious Tests for Civil Office ...................................................................... 7
    C. The Movement to Decriminalize Religious Behavior ........................................................................ 7

III. CLASSICAL SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE IS NOT AN ANTI-GOD STATEMENT ............. 8
    A. The Baptist Contribution .................................................................................................................. 9
    B. Religion’s Role in the New System ..................................................................................................... 10

IV. CONCLUSION ...................................................................................................................................... 12